A scintillating wine from the outset, with complex grapefruit and green mango fruits - very fragrant and exotic - a citrus edge and the merest hint of barrel fermentation savoury complexity. The palate's very bright, crisp and evenly textured; again there's the merest hint of barrel-derived character here. Tangy green-mango finish.

This is the most majestic of the Cherubino sauvignons, with a very assertive fresh tropical fruit core. The nose is green mango, Tahitian lime and melon, some gently spicy oak (80% barrel fermentation here). On the palate comes more creamy texture than we've seen in the other sauvignons from Cherubino: lime custard, green mango skin and a chalky, resolved textural softness, all brilliantly delivered.

This is a single parcel from the Channybearup Vineyard in Pemberton. It has aromas of exotic gooseberry and green passionfruits, melon and grassy elements, with flinty lemon-citrus edges. The palate's smooth and crisp, with a ball of passionfruit and ripe melon flavour and fine lime. Even and long through the finish.

A mix of Porongurup (60%) and Frankland (40%) grapes, this is a flinty, fine and sweetly perfumed style, with charming fragrant appeal - lime and green apple - really fresh. The palate's crunchy fruit presence has impressive weight and shape, with fine-boned structure, great balance and a little white peach to close.

The intensity and concentration here is really impressive, with a wealth of ripe citrus, lime and grapefruit, and a little white nectarine too - very focused and lively. The palate has direct, intense and linear style, smooth, restrained apple and lime fruit bedded into a long, tube-like finish.

Lovely pears drop, lime, talcum powder and sweet chalky aromas on the nose here - very pure and vibrant. The palate's right in the lime zone, with candied-lime zest flavour, fine acid and a very approachable overall balance.

A bargain from Cherubino's wizard hands, this takes some cool Pemberton chardonnay and delivers a ripe citrus and stone-fruit scented style. The palate's nicely worked into shape, with stone fruits and melons, some mealy, nutty complexity and handy balanced length.

This has terrific ripeness in terms of fragrance and flavour: plenty of apple and pear, light stony minerals too, with a little citrus in the mix. Cherubino has the mix of sweetness and tangy crunch just right here, and this will be very popular around the barbecue this year.
